Austro-German Blow in Italy and Balkans Now Believed Probable

1. Following the report that the Bolshevik order of demobilization has been countermanded, Germany is preparing to renew hostilities against Russia. This decision was reached at a conference at imperial headquarters, Holland, today.

2. British naval authorities believe Germany is preparing to launch its biggest U-boat offensive of the entire war, with super-submarines, in April.

3. The belief is growing in Entente military circles that the great German land offensive in the spring will be directed against Italy and the Balkans instead of being launched on the west front. There is much uneasiness over the situation in Italy and the ability of the Italian armies to resist a renewed drive.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 15.—Germany is preparing to renew its offensive against Russia, reports reaching here say. This decision is in answer to Trotsky's announced determination not to conclude a formal peace, although withdrawing from the war.

It gives strength to the report that the Bolshevik order for demobilization of the army has been countermanded. A conference at imperial headquarters, attended by the Kaiser, Hertling, Hindenburg, Ludendorff, Kuehlmann and others is said to have decided upon an invasion of Great Russia, with Petrograd as the objective.

The Germans take the view that Trotsky's declaration, though it did not end the war, automatically ended the armistice.

Berlin newspapers intimate that peace negotiations with Russia are about to open. They say, although no official communication has been issued, it may be assumed that Russian negotiations with the Entente have arrived at a stage agreed upon.

Germany's biggest submarine drive of the whole war may be expected in April, it was stated here today by a naval authority.

Germany is said to have been active for the last few months refitting and overhauling her submarine fleet, building bigger U-boats and mounting powerful long-range guns upon them.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—That Germany intends a major offensive against the Balkans and Italy is a growing view in Entente military quarters here.

The net result of the prolonged troop movements of the Teuton on the west front was said by reliable sources to be merely the replacement of tired, short divisions by full, fresh divisions, with an appreciable numerical strengthening at one point only.

Proclamation

TO USE SHIPS FOR WAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—That every possible ton of available shipping may be used for the transportation of troops to France and for keeping them furnished with supplies and munitions, the Government today ordered the restriction of the entire foreign commerce of the United States.

President Wilson issued two proclamations, one placing every article of import, and the other placing every article of export, under license. The proclamations become effective tomorrow.

The new restriction on imports was deemed necessary by the increased tonnage shortage and demand for all available bottoms for war supplies. It is one of the most far-reaching steps President Wilson has yet taken, involving as it does delicate diplomatic questions and sharp curtailment, not only of American industry, but the commerce of all nations.

The exportation proclamation was issued, it was officially stated, "because of the acute tonnage situation and the military situation and the necessity to conserve the products of the country for the necessary conduct of the war."

It prohibits the exportation of all articles of manufacture or produce except under license by the Government and does not mean an embargo on exports, but places in the hands of the President the power to regulate. This power he will exercise through the war-trade board and the Treasury Department and will be exercised "with the single purpose of winning the war."

Every effort will be made to avoid any unnecessary interference with the country's foreign trade, and to impose upon our exporters and importers no restrictions except those involved in the prosecution of the war.

Water Toward Bay

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 15.—Vast quantities of water pouring into the Susquehanna River from its tributaries today open the two-foot layer of ice at noon and the river has become wild. At Columbia the water is ten feet over the low water stage, lowlands near Safe Harbor are being flooded by water and ice that is backing up, and the greatest gorge in history is beginning to take form. Small boats at Columbia have been caught in the flow. Creeks serving the river are flowing over the banks and flooding farmlands.

The plant of the Marietta Gravity Water Company was wrecked today by the ice and raw water must be forced from the river. The river froze solid December 8 and remained solid for sixty-nine days.

as Quarters for Men En Route for France

A meeting was held at the City Hall today to decide the question of where to dispose of the boys of the truck companies arriving in this city from the West en route to the coast for shipment to France.

Those present were the Mayor, George W. Childs, Drexel, Judge J. Willis Martin, Director of Public Safety William and Charles B. Hall, chairman of the Council Committee for the Relief, Care and Sustenance of the Dependents of Soldiers and Sailors.

It was decided to make the north corridor of the fourth floor of the City Hall a dormitory for these men. It is just opposite the councilman's chambers and was chosen because of its sanitary facilities.

The Parkway plaza will be used for the stabling of the trucks and teams. Feeding arrangements have not as yet been made. It was brought out that these truck companies arrive without any advance notice whatever from the authorities.

in Detroit

Mrs. Rose Blank, twenty-six years old, of 537 Winton street, a widow with three children, narrowly escaped being added to the strangling record of Ostick Kukulansky, if police account of his record be true.

Kukulansky, who gave his address as Fortieth street and Girard avenue, had a slight acquaintance with Mrs. Blank and last night entered her home. When she repulsed him, he started to choke her, it is alleged. She got away and ran into the street, where she found Patrolman Severn, of the Fourth street and Snyder avenue station, who arrested Kukulansky.

Magistrate Baker held Kukulansky without bail for an investigation into his Detroit record.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The first activity on the Belgian sector of the western front in several weeks was reported by Field Marshal Haig today. He said the Belgians repulsed a German raiding party east of Merckem yesterday.

"The enemy's artillery displayed considerable activity in the Quent sector early last night," Haig reported.

"We secured prisoners in patrol encounters in the neighborhood of Lena." Quent is at the lower end of the famous Drocourt-Quent support line, opposite Arras.

FAMOUS ARTIST QUILTS ART CLUB

JOSEPH PENNELL QUILTS ART CLUB;
ACCUSED OF ANTI-ENGLISH VIEWSFamous American Artist and Etcher Refuses to Discuss Matter—"Absurd," Declare His Friends, and Give Reason to Show Patriotism

JOSEPH PENNELL, member of the National Academy of Design, of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, of the Royal Belgian Academy of Arts and an original member of the Painters-Etchers, of Great Britain, and many other societies of Europe and America, foremost American sketch artist whose black-and-white masterpieces are world famous, has tendered his resignation from the Art Club.

The reason given for Mr. Pennell's resignation by many members of the club is that the artist resented the action of the house committee in summoning him before them to rebuke him for alleged pro-peace and anti-English utterances.

Officers of the club admitted that action had been taken, but refused to say whether or not the resignation had been as yet acted upon.

Always when in Philadelphia Mr. Pennell has resided at the Art Club, where his long, quaint figure was one of the most familiar sights in the club. Since his resignation, however, he has moved to a hotel, a short distance away from the club, on Broad street.

Mr. Pennell today was asked about his resignation. He said: "I do not care to discuss the matter. It is true that I have tendered my resignation from the Art Club. I consider the matter is one between the members of the committee and me," said Mr. Pennell today.

According to various members of the club, Mr. Pennell was so outspoken in his anti-English sentiments that not only was he "obnoxious" to many of them, but they feared he would actually impugn the patriotism of the club. The action of the house committee is said to have been taken after some of the club's most prominent members had lodged a complaint with the committee, declaring that Mr. Pennell's anti-English abusive utterances had become intolerable.

"I do not think Mr. Pennell is pro-German, however," one of the members said. "I think it would be wrong to make that charge against him, but he is so anti-English that many of the members felt that, in being offensive to one of our allies, he was in a way, lacking in the kind of loyalty and patriotism that ought to be shown at this time."

"It is a relief to many of us now that Pennell is out of the club," said one member. "I never sat near him if I could help it, because I didn't want to be angered by having to listen to him. It is true the house committee summoned him and that he resented it. Everybody grants that he is a genius, but a man must be something more than that in times like these."

VETERAN CRIMINAL GETS

ently Calls Theft "Small Job"
I Did in a Pinch

John, alias "Kid" Callahan, whose record of arrests fills two cards in the police records, was today sentenced to a term of not less than eighteen months nor more than two years in the Eastern Penitentiary, after pleading guilty to shoplifting. Judge Finletter, in Quarter Sessions Court, imposed the sentence.

Callahan's record in the past has been that of a safe-blower and burglar. When arrested on the shoplifting charge he made light of the offense, especially when Court Detective Townsend read the long list of burglaries of which he was convicted and for which he served time. He called it "a small job that I did in a pinch." He said that he was sick and needed money badly and the only way he knew in which to get it was to steal. He is only about forty years of age and has served nearly fifteen years in jail. He was caught stealing silverware from a department store at Eighth and Market streets.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 15.—The Senate has "indefinitely postponed" consideration of joint resolution No. 1 ratifying the Federal prohibition amendment, and the last echo of the ratification resolution has been heard in the corridors of the State House.

It was erroneously reported last Wednesday that the Maryland Senate had followed the lead of the House of Delegates in favorable action on the prohibition amendment. Four State Legislatures, Mississippi, Virginia, Kentucky and North Dakota, in the order named, have put their seal of approval upon the amendment.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The guard camp at Augusta, Ga., and the National Army cantonment at Camp Meade, Md., housing the Pennsylvania National Guard and draft men are the healthiest in the United States, according to reports of the War Department made public today. Camp Hancock has a sick rate of but 13.4, while Meade is only 12.2 per thousand.

Camp Dix has a rate of 28.4 per thousand and Camp Lee, 47.8.

Camp Travis, at San Antonio, is the highest with 116.9.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—A record in naval construction was announced by Secretary Daniels today on advice from Mare Island that the U. S. S. Taylor was successfully launched after having been 66 per cent completed within four months after the laying of the keel.

The shortest time in which a war vessel ever was constructed before the war was twenty months, the Secretary said, and the average time two years.

Adalbert K. Fischer, until last summer president of the $2,000,000 plant of the Schutte-Koerting Company, at Twelfth and Thompson streets, seized by the United States Government, has been removed from Fort du Pont, where he was interned as a dangerous alien enemy, to Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia. It was learned from Federal authorities today.

The plant, owned and operated by relatives of the Kaiser, has been engaged in the manufacture of vital parts for United States ships since the entry of the national Government, have been forwarded to the office of Special Agent Frank L. Garbarino, of the Department of Justice.

Corps of inspectors are busy in the Federal Building pouring over the papers to determine if there are any grounds on which criminal action may be brought against Fischer or his wife, who is said to be a relative of the Kaiser, and officials of the company.

REPORT PAPERS IN CODE

It is rumored that several of these papers are in code. Agent Garbarino refused to comment on this.

Should grounds for criminal action be found, Fischer will be brought from his prison camp to stand trial, and, if convicted, sent to a Federal prison. It was said.

No action under the enemy alien law can be taken against Mr. Fischer, but if he should be convicted on civil charges he also would be sentenced. Federal officials said.

The Schutte-Koerting plant was ordered seized by A. Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian, following the hearing in Washington. At the hearing, which was conducted by Francis P. Garvin, director of the Alien Property Custodian, the Bureau of Investigation, it was disclosed that in swearing to statements affecting the transfer of stock in the company, officers of the company and Mrs. Fischer committed perjury.

It was also learned that the alleged transfer of stock, whereby the owners of the concern hoped to evade the law and satisfy the authorities, was effected by means of a stock which it is alleged was sold before this country entered the war, was really transferred three weeks after the conflict began, it developed at the hearing.

PAPERS SHOW FRAUD

The hearing was held for the purpose of investigating the affairs of the company. Fischer, his wife Helene, and Daniel W. Hildreth, vice president, appeared before the committee.

It was also learned that the alleged transfer of stock, whereby the owners of the concern hoped to evade the law and satisfy the authorities, was effected by means of a stock which it is alleged was sold before this country entered the war, was really transferred three weeks after the conflict began, it developed at the hearing.

It developed both the Schutte-Koerting Company and Mrs. Fischer had stock in the company. The stock was sold before this country entered the war, was really transferred three weeks after the conflict began, it developed at the hearing.

The plant is valued at $1,700,000. For some time it has been engaged on contracts for the Government.

SHARP ACTION DUE
IN SHIP STRIKESGovernment May Seize Plants and Draft Workers if Necessary

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The Government today is ready for sharp action toward striking carpenters who threaten to tie up the eastern seaboard shipyards.

Already Chairman Hurley, of the shipping board, has warned the strike leaders that "friendly" action will be taken at once. Should his suggestion be disregarded, an ultimatum will follow, and in event of this being ignored, President Wilson will order the seizure of the shipyards.

Shipping board officials have urged the President to go before the workers personally and appeal to them for cooperation in the face of danger to American forces abroad. They hold that the President could talk with all the shipbuilders in the country in an address to those in a single day—and insist that a new spirit for the war work.

URGE TALK BY WILSON

Thus far W. L. Hutchenson, president of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Builders, to whom Hurley addressed his appeal last night, has definitely refused to place the carpenters' demands before the shipping board wage adjustment commission.

HURLEY'S APPEAL

Mr. Hurley's message was as follows: "William L. Hutchenson, general president United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, is dissatisfied with the action of his members in the strike against the shipping industry."

While the people of this country are mourning the loss of brave young Americans in the Lusitania horror, while thousands of American homes are anxiously awaiting the lists of survivors slowly coming in, it is certain that another precious life has been snatched from the Atlantic by the grim announcement that the carpenters in shipyards are now on strike.

Before any Government agency is given the go-ahead for the seizure of the good record of our adjustment boards for promptness and fairness in dealing with all labor matters, you attempt to paralyze the shipbuilding industry at the port of New York.

Do you realize you are adding to the fearful danger our soldiers already face, the danger of starvation and the loss of our ships?

M'COOL REMAINS MUTE

More arrests in the ten-month plot investigation of the Eddystone munitions disaster are expected today, following the capture of Harold McCool, of Ambler, now under arrest in Potomacville as a suspect.

State Fire Marshal Port, it became known today, asked for the arrest of McCool, who was run down in the culmination of a systematic search for him that began immediately after the big explosion that cost the lives of 125 workers, mostly women and girls, at the Eddystone Ammunition Corporation plant, April 10, 1917.

Evidence that fell into the fire marshal's possession at the time pointed to McCool and others as knowing something about the cause of the tragedy, it was said.

McCool Port declined to talk about the evidence today.

"The case is in such a delicate status now that it would be unwise to make anything public," he said, adding that developments may be expected momentarily. "It is one of those things that must be run out to the end."

The next of a supposed German-made plot exists at the end of a trail of evidence beginning with McCool, according to officials of the corporation. Along this trail a Federal, State and county probe is progressing today.

Promises of further arrests at any moment was made today by J. Barton Weeks, assistant district attorney of Delaware County and a member of counsel for the munitions corporation. The explosion occurred in its jurisdiction.

"Additional arrests may be looked for at any time," it was said, "as the case moves forward. We will have it advisable to make public what we are doing."

DECISION ON PARADE
UP TO WAR SECRETARY

Baker Reluctant to Call on McAdoo for Trains to Carry Meade
Boys Here

Red tape is holding up the decision that would permit Philadelphia selected men from Camp Meade to parade on Broad street on Washington's Birthday. Director General of Railroads McAdoo and Judge Chambers, director of transportation, were informed that George Dallas Dixon, vice president in charge of operation of the Pennsylvania Railroad, expressed willingness to furnish trains to bring the boys back to their homes for one last visit before they are called "over there."

McAdoo announced that the parade depended on Secretary of War Baker—if Baker was willing. It was said, the troop movement would be made to leave the original declaration that he would like to see the cities have their boys home for parade, Secretary Baker refused to make a formal order on Mr. McAdoo for the troop trains, dispatches say.

With this general shifting of responsibility, two days of silence have elapsed since the Ledger wired Mr. McAdoo on behalf of the people of Philadelphia for a ruling as to whether or not the two Philadelphia regiments—the 21st Field Artillery and the 11th Infantry—could come "home" on Washington's Birthday.

His friends in Texas declared today when they heard he had been killed that he was the way Castle wanted to die. He had said many times, "I have had more thrilling fights with the Boches, but had never been injured while at the front."

Castle came to Fort Worth last October with Lord Weller's squadron and immediately went into quarters at Benbrook, where he was an instructor. He had seen long and sensational service on the western front in France. He had made more than 400 flights over the German lines in Flanders and had had many thrilling fights with the Boches, but had never been injured while at the front.

His friends in Texas declared today when they heard he had been killed that he was the way Castle wanted to die. He had said many times, "I have had more thrilling fights with the Boches, but had never been injured while at the front."

Castle is the tenth army aviator to meet death in the United States this week. Seven were killed within the last few days.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Feb. 15.—Max Boyer, prominent in business and social circles, who shot and killed Theodore Webster Wade at his home last month, renewed his $10,000 bail today, the Grand Jury having found an indictment charging manslaughter. Wade was a young factory employe whose friendship for Boyer's wife aroused Boyer's jealousy.

The shooting occurred one night when Boyer returned home unexpectedly and found Wade hidden in the house. Wade had been warned to keep away from the Boyer house.

In reply Mrs. Roosevelt said the Colonel was rapidly recovering and the dangerous stage of his illness was all but passed.

EXPECT GREGORY
HERE FOR PROBE
OF HOG ISLANDAttorney General May

in Person

BOWLES AWAITS ARRIVAL

Head of Department of Justice or Assistant May Reach
Philadelphia Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Senator Vardaman intends a thorough investigation of the alleged Hog Island Shipyard irregularities if he has to conduct it single-handed. He announced today that if the Senate Commerce Committee does not send a subcommittee to Hog Island to investigate, he would make the trip and a personal investigation on his own initiative.

"There are patriots for pelf," said Senator Vardaman. "I might add a quotation from Dr. Ben Jonson, 'Patriotism is the last refuge of the scoundrel.'"

Senator Vardaman suggests that the Government should take over the Hog Island project and build it strictly as a Government owned and built plant.

Attorney General Gregory in person or an assistant is expected to come to Philadelphia to probe the Hog Island Shipyard, with Government operation of the big plant looming up today as a probability.

Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles, managing director of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, said he expected the Attorney General or a member of the department of Justice here tomorrow "or very soon thereafter." He disclaimed any first-hand knowledge, however, of the Government's intention following President Wilson's order for a probe to determine whether or not criminal prosecution is warranted.

"I hope the Attorney General will speak for himself on that point," said the admiral before he left for Hog Island this morning in a motorcar. "I expect him or an assistant tomorrow or very soon after."

These are the outstanding features of the Hog Island situation today. The matter has passed the stage of a probe into alleged wastefulness and extravagance. The demand now is to ascertain whether anything has occurred which will warrant prosecution under the criminal law. And in the meantime everything possible is being done to put the big plant on a basis of ultimate efficiency in the shortest possible time, with every prospect that Hog Island will be turning out ships at a satisfactory rate of speed in the immediate future and that waste has been permanently eliminated.

CAPITAL AWAITING GREGORY
The formation of plans by the Department of Justice for carrying out the investigation are being held in abeyance until the return to Washington of Attorney General Gregory, probably tomorrow, according to a message from the capital.

The selection of the man or men to make the investigation is also being delayed until his return. Mr. Gregory left Washington last Monday for Mississippi with the body of his mother, who died last Saturday. The funeral was to be held at Columbus, Miss., yesterday, and it is expected the Attorney General will return tomorrow to the capital.

Solicitor General John W. Davis, acting Attorney General in Mr. Gregory's absence, said today that all the papers in the case are being assembled so there will be no delay in dispatching the investigator or investigators to Hog Island and as soon as Mr. Gregory decides on the plan to be carried out and chooses the men to undertake it. These papers include the reports made by Mr. Plex, vice chairman of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and Rear Admiral Bowles, and a score of others who have testified regarding the operation at Hog Island.

While there has been no statement from official sources that would warrant the positive assertion that the Government will take hold of the shipyards and operate them, many indications point to this result. The saving that has been accomplished in the brief time that Rear Admiral Bowles has been in charge, it is believed, will form an argument in favor of Government operation that cannot but be overcome.

TO CARRY OUT PROGRAM
Admiral Bowles is authority for the statement that, by reason of the better co-ordination of departments at Hog Island which has been brought out in the last few weeks and the increased output.
